

Pancreatic and Ovarian Cancer Early Detection Blood Testing now available

Your patient is interested

Your patient is interested in discussing a blood testing service now available in Australia, which is intended as an aid in the early detection of both ovarian cancer and pancreatic cancer.

A simple blood test could help detect cancer earlier

Further information for clinicians is available via the Clinician Portal on the following website: www.earlydetection.com.au or simply scan the QR code.

The clinician's portal includes information such as patient eligibility, cost, turnaround time, how to access the testing service, the available scientific performance data, and contact details if you have any questions.

Clinician Portal

For further information or enquiries:

 www.earlydetection.com.au

 earlydetection@cancercarediagnostics.com.au